MISSION 41

Rewilding Wetlands with BEAVERS

Beavers are nature's ultimate engineers.

By building dams and digging canals, they can transform dry land into thriving wetlands full of biodiversity.

But we almost lost them forever.
For centuries, beavers were hunted for their fur and scent glands.

Against all odds, they've made an incredible comeback.
Our partner Rewilding Oder Delta is helping secure that return.

And when beavers come back, so do water, wetlands and wildlife.

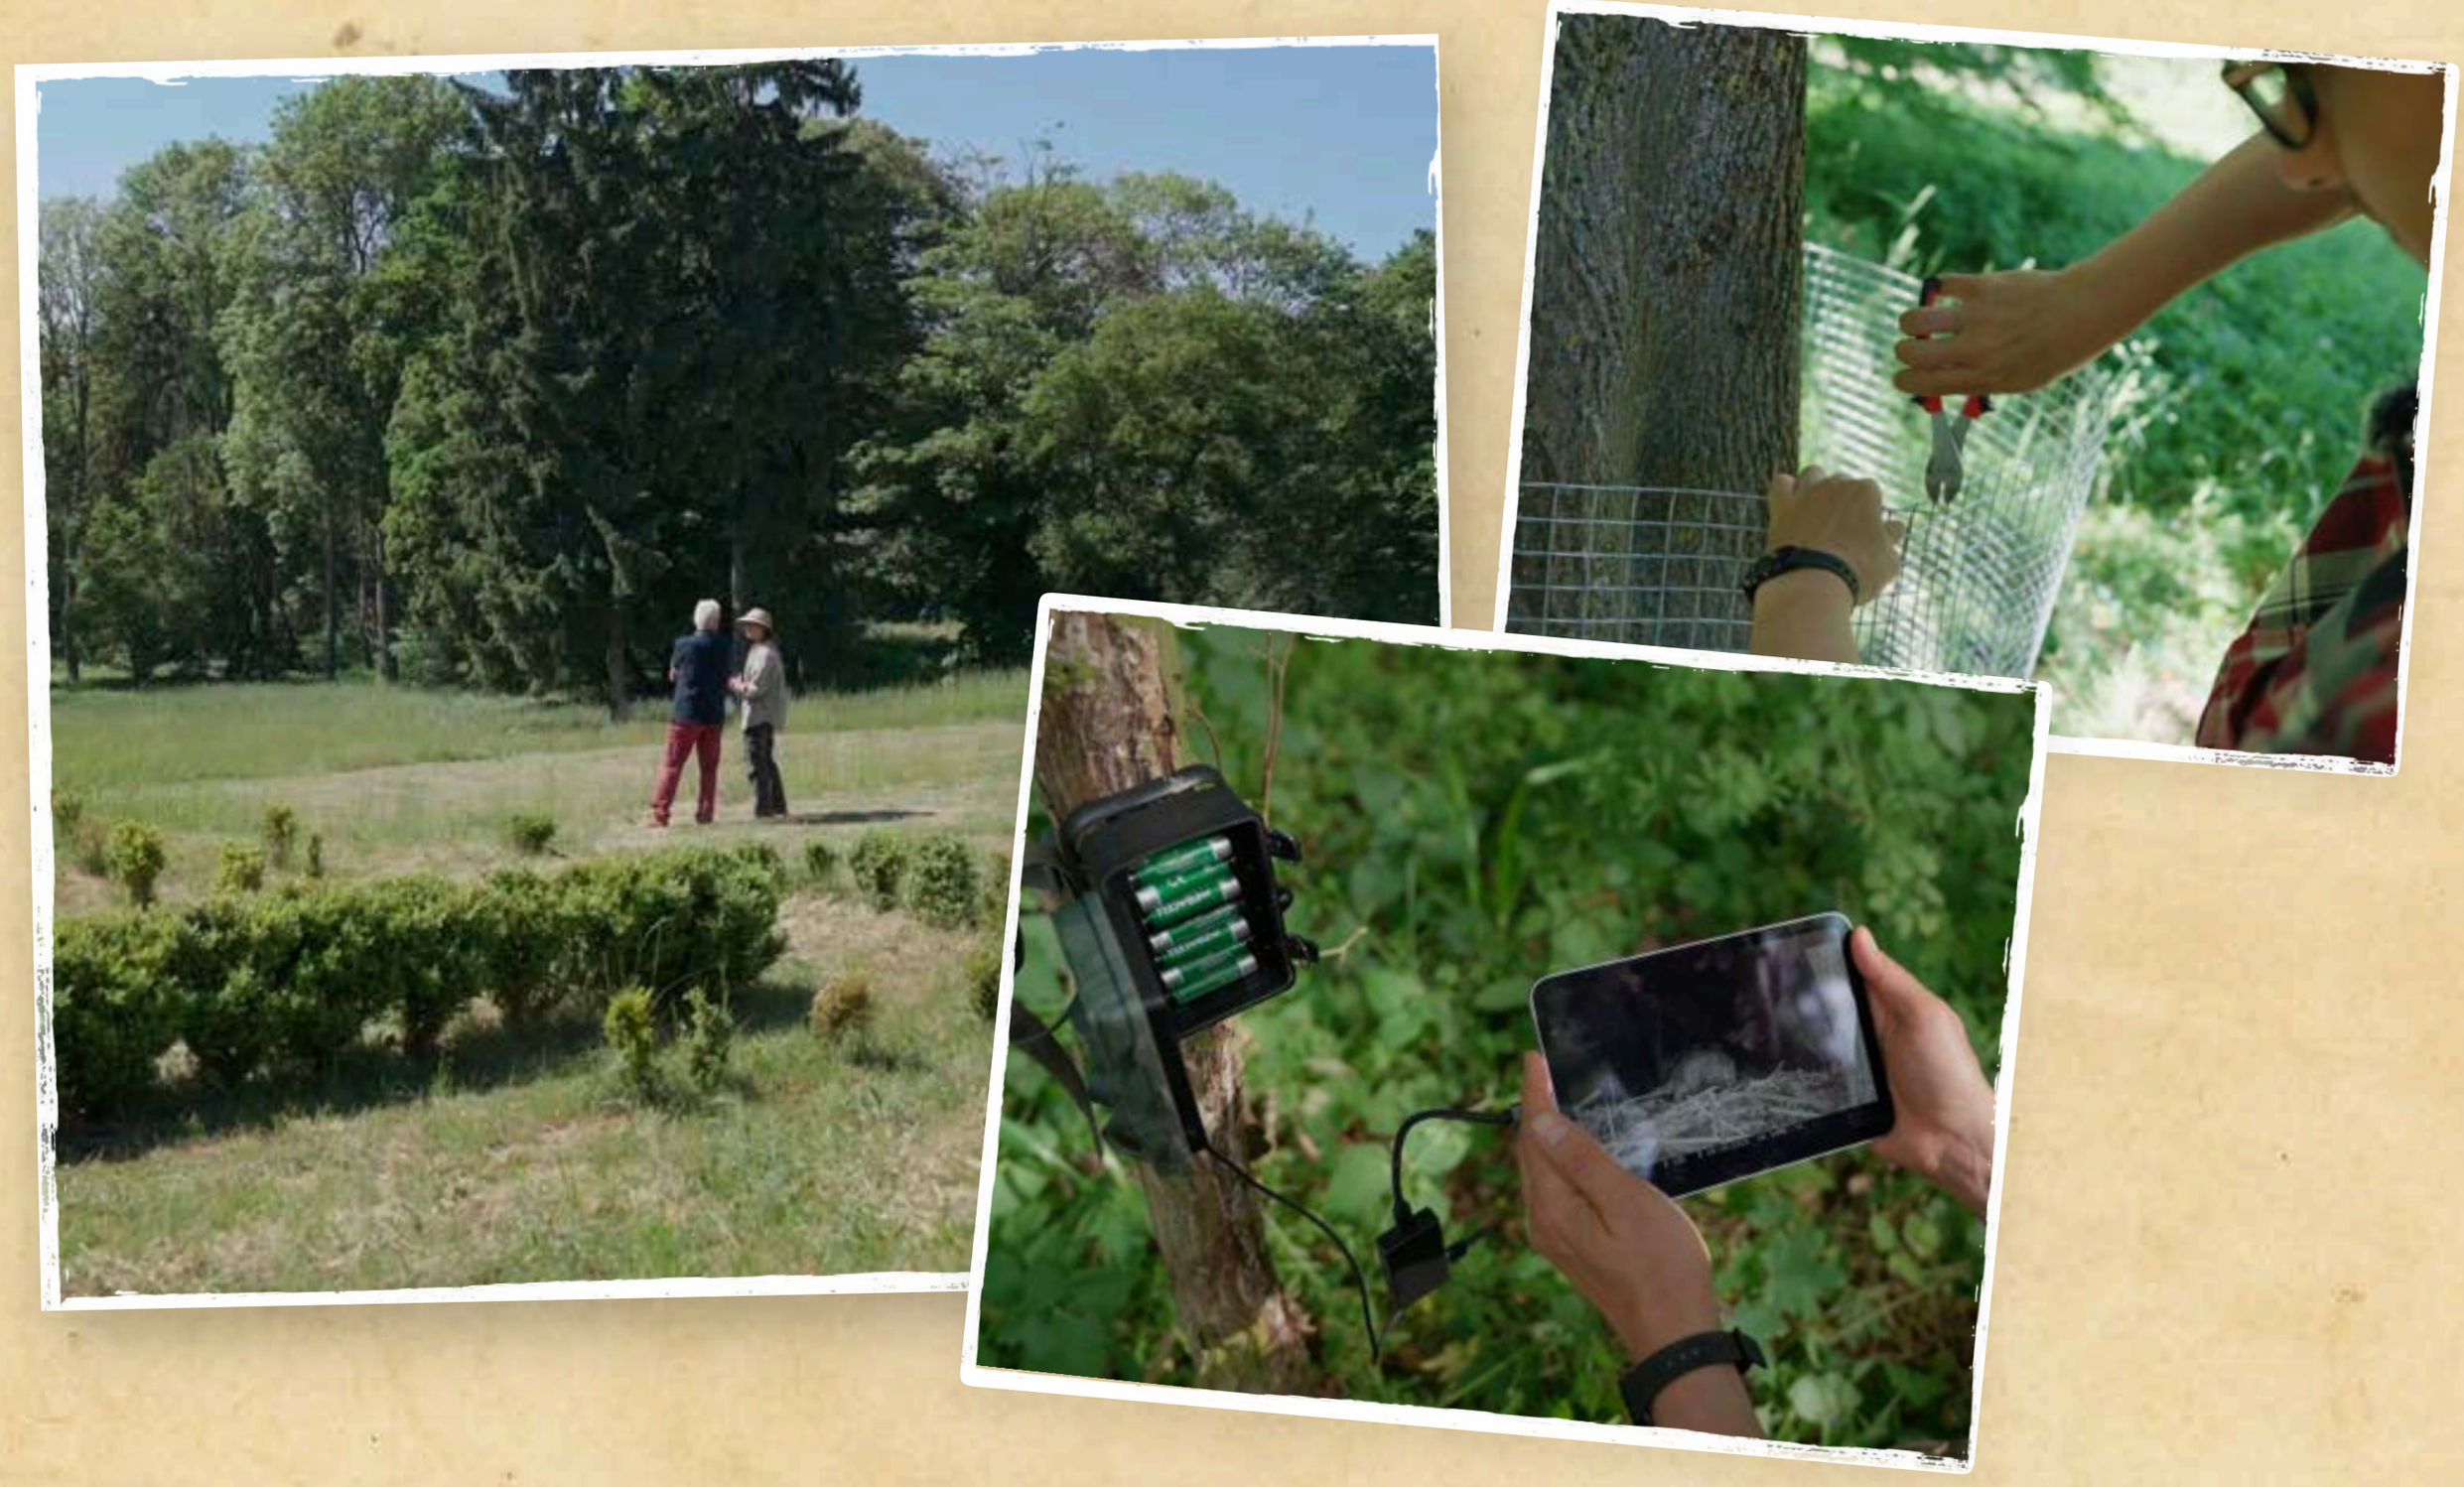

Now, we're helping create a new home for them.

🐟 We're buying a 20-hectare abandoned fish farm in Poland to turn it into a beaver playground.

But bringing them back also means helping people coexist with them.

Because beavers can flood fields, block drainage ditches, and chew down valuable trees.

That's why we're also supporting human-beaver coexistence by funding:

🌱 9,000 willow trees planted as beaver food

🛡️ Protection materials for 300 trees

All of this work will boost long-term beaver recovery.
